

Jean White

Clients describe Jean White as the ultimate professional. They value her ability to help them focus on their most strategic priorities to get the results they need. She is skilled in tailoring workshops to match the specific needs of her clients. Her energy is contagious. Her presentations are inspiring and enjoyable.

Jean motivates her participants to find balance in their professional and personal lives. She is passionate about the life-changing principles she teaches. She has used them through the best and most difficult times of her own life to achieve her own goals—both professional and personal.

Prior to joining FranklinCovey in 1990, Jean had 12 years of consulting and training experience. She was the Director of Training for the Computer Dynamics Institute in Virginia Beach, Virginia. In that role she dealt with the pressures inherent in a growing business as well as the challenges involved in developing an effective team.

Jean has worked with many clients that represent a variety of industries including banking and finance, health care, automotive, and technology. She has worked with a number of Fortune 100 and 500 organizations. She has worked with a number of branches of the military, for government agencies at the local and federal level, and for educational entities.

Jean graduated with a B.S. from Radford University with dual majors in political science and computer science. She has been named to FranklinCovey's prestigious President's Club as recognition for her excellent achievement.

Jean lives in Hampton Virginia. She loves to travel, gardening, and many outdoor activities.
